

Putting on TV a blatantly partisan political attack against John Kerry by Sinclair Broadcasting right before the election is undemocratic, unfair, and outrageously partisan. Sinclair is a company that uses the public airwaves and is supposed to serve the public interest. But they're too big and have too much control and far too much venemous partisanship in programming. It should be stopped. And their broadcast licenses should not be renewed. It may take all kinds of lawsuits to try to exert some control if the FCC -- which does have responsibility -- won't do it. License renewal shouldn't be automatic when there is such egregious violation of fairness.
